

Who We Are

The Hispanic Connection of Southern Indiana was formed in 2001 by a broad-based group of people from the Southern Indiana community, representing individuals, families, businesses, educational institutions, healthcare organizations, churches, and service providers.

Why Network?

The Hispanic Connection of Southern Indiana provides the perfect opportunity to network among all those who interact with the Hispanic community in Southern Indiana. Businesses, educational institutions, healthcare organizations, social service agencies, and others can “connect” with the Hispanic population of Southern Indiana, benefiting everyone involved.

The Hispanic Connection of Southern Indiana, Inc. is a 501 (c)(3) nonprofit organization that seeks to respond to the needs of the Spanish speaking people of Clark, Floyd, and Harrison counties of Southern Indiana, to help integrate them into the local community, and to promote better understanding and cooperation with those who speak English.

Objectives:

- Provide referrals or Direct Social Service Needs
- Workshops for organizations wanting to respond to the Hispanic populations.
- Develop presentations in Spanish on topics of interest, such as housing, medical care, immigration services and family enrichment.
- Connect those seeking employment with job opportunities
- Offer opportunities to learn English and Spanish
- Assist with immigration paperwork and instruction on becoming a citizen
- Inform rights and regulations with direction to Legal Services if needed
- Workshops and Intrepreting

According to the 2000 Census, Hispanics now make up 3.5% of the population in Indiana, with a growing presence in Clark, Floyd, and Harrison counties. Hispanics often face obstacles in adjusting to life in the United States. Through action, advocacy, and involvement, the Hispanic Connection reaches out to those who might feel isolated and afraid by addressing their educational, legal, social, physical and emotional needs, including issues of human rights. We thus provide the arena for an exchange of opinions and a better understanding between both groups.
